Women Bowlers Combine Halloween and Kegling in League Competition

The Halloween spirit invaded bowling circles this week when members of the women's teams bowed in costume and then finished the evening with refreshments of doughnuts and coffee.

There was little change in league standings last week. Recreations held first place in the Women's Major league with Bussie's Lounge and Tieke's Insurance tied for second place.

Frostee Sno Factory Saved from Fire Loss

An as yet unidentified person who saw and reported fire at the Frostee Sno factory, 857 Main st., shortly after midnight Friday, probably saved the structure from serious damage or total loss.

As it was, the blaze was confined to a window frame and the loss is comparatively negligible.

Adne Kyllingstad, night man at the plant, said he was informed by a passerby that the building was afire. He found the smoke and a slight flame coming from a window frame above one of the ovens. He called the owner, John Oftedahl who in turn called the fire department. The blaze was confined to the window.

It is believed that the insulation from the oven slipped allowing the heat from it to ignite the wood frame of the window.

Making Both Ends Meet

Early in October the Interstate Commerce Commission granted the American railroads a temporary increase of 10 per cent on freight rates. This was purely an emergency measure, designed to help the industry meet its financial problems while the ICC considers the permanent increase in rates which the railroads have requested.

The temporary increase will be helpful. But, as President William T. Farley of the Association of American Railroads said, "It is essential that the railroads be given as soon as possible further and adequate increases in freight rates. It is essential because unless the railroads can make ends meet and earn a fair and reasonable return on the money invested in their properties, they will not be able to keep financially and physically strong, which is so vital to the nation's prosperity and security."

The railroads' case in behalf of their rate petition is impregnable. The lines' revenue—even in these days of exceptionally heavy traffic—is not sufficient to pay operating costs and earn anything resembling a reasonable return on their investment. The gravity of the situation is indicated by the fact that since the railroads first requested higher rates, their operating expenses have increased by around half a billion dollars a year, due primarily to wage hikes. And an additional wage increase has been asked by the operating unions and is in the process of discussion.

The ICC acted with commendable speed in granting the temporary increase. It is to be hoped that it will do everything possible to expedite the request for a permanent increase. The solvency of a vital industry depends upon it.

Fallacies of Price Control

No high government official has urged that price control be imposed on our peacetime economy. But various private groups are vehemently arguing in favor of another OPA or its equivalent, and the American people should realize what their ideas would involve.

First of all, peacetime price control would mean revolutionary regimentation of our economic system. It would necessitate rigid dictation of profits, wages and all other items entering into commodity costs. "Planning"—a polite word for totalitarian economics—would take the place of supply and demand. Competition, as we know it, would disappear.

From the practical point of view, price control would probably be an utter fiasco. The government could set a price at which an article must be sold—but no one would produce that article if the price were so low as to cause a loss. Goods would automatically flow into the black market, which would become the only free market. That is happening in every country where price control and rationing are in effect. The wealthy buy what they want at extortionate prices, racketeers get rich, and the rest of the people go without.

Who Wants Economy

A long step toward cutting the cost of the Federal government can be made without imperiling the national defense or any other essential expense. It can be done by the simple expedient of not spending tax money for purposes which can and should be carried on by private capital.

It was recently announced that current Rural Electrification Administration grants are at an all time high. REA's appropriation for this fiscal year came to $225,000,000, and was second only to the $250,000,000 it received in the fiscal year ending last July. There is undoubtedly a great deal to say on both sides concerning REA's virtues and vices. But the fact remains that the electric utility industry, in all parts of the nation, is rapidly capable of providing farm electrification as rapidly as possible, has put farm power service at the top of its list of going projects—and is doing the job without a penny of tax money and is creating new taxable assets for all units of government in the process.

The industry's program is designed to bring practically every farm in the country within easy reach of central station power in about two years. The only factor that might delay completion of the program on schedule is material shortages. In any event, virtually complete electrification of rural America, by free, tax-paying, regulated enterprise, is definitely in sight.

The Reclamation Bureau has been another major offender in spending unnecessary millions, and it is now being criticized for apparently spending even more money than Congress authorized. Congress should really study the cost of this kind of socialism, and do something positive about it—in spite of the protests of home town boosters who dislike curtailment of Federal spending in their areas. The record proves that while there has been a lot of talk about economy in government, local groups try to prevent it.

Freezing weather isn't with us long before we realize that frozen stock tanks mean frozen profits. Icy, hard-to-get-at water quickly discourages animals from drinking the gallons of water they need to make more meat and milk.

The best way to end winter watering problems (and save yourself the work of chopping out the tank) is to plug-in an Electric Stock Tank Water Warmer. See your favorite dealer today and learn in a minute how an easily installed, economically operated Stock Tank Water Warmer will save you time and work... how it will more than pay for itself by helping to keep production and profits up when the temperature goes down!

Sandman Gets Driver; Robber Gets the Cheese

CHICAGO.—Claire Nugent, Bosco, Wis., went to sleep and lost 1,500 pounds—of American cheddar cheese.

Police Sgt. James T. Savage said Nugent, driver for Wunnicke Transfer Lines, Bosco, told police he was bringing the cheese to Chicago.

After parking his truck for a nap, he reported, he awoke to discover someone had opened the locked trailer and made off with 20 boxes of cheese weighing 75 pounds each.

Moslem Convert Is Grand Mufti of WestEx-Sunday School Teacher and Vet Becomes a Sheik.

OAKLAND, CALIF.—Sheik W. Abdurrahman Lutz, who used to be plain William Lutz when he taught Sunday school as a teen-ager, says he has become grand mufti of the western United States.

The young ex-marine said he adopted the Moslem faith in 1942 in Saudi Arabia where he was employed by an oil company.

"I'm not prophetic," he said, "and there was no 'flash-of-light' revelation. I became interested in the faith when I saw the compassion, the charity of the true Moslem."

While working with the oil company in Saudi Arabia, Sheik Lutz said, "I became better acquainted with the Arabs than most of the Americans. I saw their generosity, the way they would share their pitifully small incomes with others . . ."

The sheik paused, adjusted his turban as he sat cross-legged on an ottoman in the apartment he shares with his mother, and said he had been named grand mufti—the first in the western states—by the Moslem community.

There are approximately 1,500 of the faithful, most of them living in or near Sacramento, he related.

He prays five times daily, he said, "bringing into action every muscle in the body—it's the minimum daily exercise needed by any man."

He hopped off the ottoman, demonstrated the movements—raising his arms, then kneeling and bowing toward Mecca.

Sheik Lutz said, "Sure, I go to shows and drink milk shakes. Nothing wrong with that." But no alcohol, no pork.

Youth Chasing Shine Box Hits High Voltage Wire

NEW YORK.—Trying to retrieve his shoe shine box which had slipped down an embankment, 14-year-old William Boden jumped on an 11,000-volt trolley wire—and escaped with burns of the left leg and bruises.

The box slipped from the boy's grasp as he stood on a bridge spanning the embankment and fell to the tracks 30 feet below.

William inched part way down the embankment, then leaped toward the tracks, hitting the overhead trolley wire. The heavy contact hurled his body 30 feet.

Hipless Father Watches Son, Polio Victim, Drown

DAYTON, OHIO.—A father's love indirectly caused the death of his crippled son here when Jackie Lee Cummings, 11, stricken with poliomyelitis seven years ago, drowned at the Huffman dam reservoir.

The grief-stricken father, Noel Cummings, explained he had taken his son on one of their daily swimming trips to strengthen the child's crippled leg when an inner tube on which they were floating deflated.

Cummings, hysterical, was dragged to shore against his will.

Magnets Clean Highways

Great strides have been made in the use of magnets, writes Gib Swanson in Capper's Farmer. Some states employ magnetic road sweepers to clear the highways of nails and other scrap. Magnets are used by canners and food processors for screening out pins, wire, basket clips and other foreign particles. Flour and feed mills use magnets to "catch" stray metal. Doctors use small, powerful magnets for removing tacks, pins, etc., from human lungs and stomach.

Academy Award Film At Methodist Church Next Tuesday Evening

"Seeds of Destiny," winner of the 1946 Academy Award for documentary film will be presented at the Family Night of the Methodist Church next Tuesday evening. The potluck supper will begin at 6:30 in the church basement and it has been requested that this conform with meatless Tuesday. People are also asked to bring their own table service. The program in the church sanctuary will begin at 7:45 and is open to the public.

"Seeds of Destiny," is a gripping portrayal of how many children live or try to live—overseas today. It pictures the homeless, hungry and sick children of the world's war-wasted areas, against the background of rubble in which most of them live.

Prepared by the United States Army, "Seeds of Destiny" has been banned in most of the show-houses of the nation because of the nature of the subject matter. For this reason a special movie for young people under twelve years of age has been arranged by Mrs. C. E. Hennings, and will take place at the same time in the church basement. "Seeds of Destiny" is a "short" similar to March of Time. A second picture, "Not by Bread Alone" and telling the story of the churches in overseas relief will also be shown.

This special program is in the interest of overseas relief and a free-will offering will be taken and the proceeds sent to the United Church Overseas Relief, a branch of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America which last year spent over $15,000,000 in the cause of suffering overseas.

Jewels Missing After Death of Kaiser's Widow

Army Investigators Suspect Foul Play in Loss of Crown Treasure.

BERLIN.—An investigator for the U. S. army declared it was possible that Princess Hermine, widow of Germany's last Kaiser, met with foul play at the hands of underworld felons seeking a fortune in crown jewels.

This development in the hunt for missing jewels valued at from $500,000 to $2,000,000 was disclosed by Director O. R. Carlucci of the army criminal investigation department.

Russian authorities have been asked to aid in the investigation of the bizarre case. Poisoning has been hinted at.

The princess died in Frankfurt-on-the Oder in the Soviet zone. Her son, Prince Ferdinand, reported to authorities that 29 pieces of jewelry which had belonged to his mother were stolen from his trunk while he was living in the American sector of Berlin.

The prince told police this was part of a royal treasure of 95 pieces which was brought to him from his mother by a woman emissary who smuggled them out of the Soviet zone two months before the princess' death.

No Mention of Cause.

Carlucci said he was going to the Russians with a request for information on Princess Hermine's death, and added:

"We would like assurances that the princess died of natural causes, for there is the possibility that she met foul play at the hands of underworld characters who may have believed she had more gems."

Carlucci said he had a statement from a friend and former physician of Hermine who had been in recent correspondence with her.

"He told us that she was in apparent good health and not suffering from heart disease, as some sources have said," Carlucci declared.

Soviet-controlled reports of Hermine's death consisted of a single sentence and made no mention of the cause.

Carlucci said his agents were pursuing clues "which lead us out of our sphere of operations, beyond the borders of Berlin and into the Russian occupation zone."

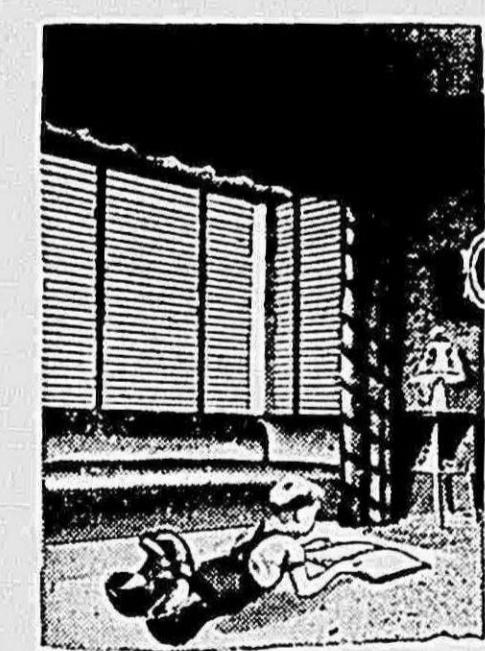

Doubt Story.

He said the CID was "suspicious of intrigue involving underworld characters who knew of the treasure in Prince Ferdinand's possession."

"Not satisfied with some angles" of Ferdinand's story of the disappearance of the gems, Carlucci said:

"We still have to produce evidence that the missing jewels were stolen from the prince. When the alleged theft was reported to us and we entered his home we were amazed that he had taken no precautions to secure the remainder of the treasure."

"We found part of the remaining jewels in the up-ended trunk and another part lying in an open packing case on a table near an open door facing out into the street.

"The prince himself told us that he suspected Russian agents who knew of his treasure, and were shadowing him at the time. If that was true he should have taken better care of the jewels."

The prince said the theft occurred after he lost one of two keys to the trunk.

Farmer Has Potato Crop;

Tomatoes Over Potatoes

PETERSBURG, IND.—John Ogden came to town to tell of his crop of potatoes.

Ogden said he planted some tomatoes this spring near his potato patch and now tomatoes are growing atop of potato plants and potatoes are growing on the roots. He believes bees crossed the pollen.

SHORT STORYThe Jester's Last Chance

By JOHN T. KIERAN

ONE more chance to play his old role! One more chance to put on the only thing left of the days when he was hailed as the World's Greatest Clown, as Arsel, the Children's Delight.

In a flash Arsel thought of what was in his trunk, from his shabby tenement room he could hear the little fellow downstairs bewailing his fate. The circus parade! And it was passing a block down, just far enough away that he could not see it, but near enough that he could hear the thrilling rumble of wagon wheels and the delighted shouts of the other children. But to share in the feast of joy was denied the little fellow. A few days before an errant truck had crushed his leg, and there he lay, imprisoned in a heavy cast.

To Arsel the rumble of wheels brought back memories. Again the smell of sawdust was in his nostrils. The stirring music of the circus rang in his ears. He saw the big tent, the prancing horses, the thousands of people laughing at his antics, shouting his name—Arsel, the world's greatest fun maker, beloved by millions—now Arsel the forgotten, the unknown, in poverty and ill health. He sat up now in his bed uncertainly, wobbly.

But only for a moment did he hear the shouts and applause of other days, for they were crowded out by the crying of the boy downstairs. He was inconsolable. The circus was passing him by.

"Arsel was trying to carry his thought into action. One more chance to be hit old self! One more chance to wear the one thing that remained of his days of glory—his clown suit. And for what cause!"

The shabby room became a dressing tent. Out there was the audience he was going to amuse, to make happy—even more this time—to cheer a little boy into a frame of mind that would beckon recovery and lessen the misery of imprisoned limbs.

But could he manage to go through with it? Could he find the strength? The community nurse, having found him when she came to visit the injured boy, had told him that he must not leave his bed.

But another outburst of childish grief decided him. Hesitatingly, totteringly he left the bed and started for the battered trunk in which lay the old clown suit.

WHEN the circus had come into the town a half dozen of the old-timers were still with it. They had been troopers long ago with Arsel before he faded into oblivion.

They had last heard of him in this town. He probably was still here. They determined to find out, and to give him a rousing salutation, a regular circusman's greeting.

Arsel had the old suit on now. He wondered again what made him feel so strange. But then as he looked

As he looked at himself in the mirror he forgot everything. At himself in the dingy mirror he forgot everything. He was Arsel, the Children's Delight.

Suddenly he almost collapsed. The flare of strength that had buoyed him up puffed out.

Suddenly a sound re-aroused his flagged mind. Incredulously he listened. Was it just a part of this strangeness that had come over him? Or was it really a circus band? Just outside! They were playing his march, The Circusmen's March!

He relaxed, happily. The boy was getting his circus after all. Shouts of joy were coming from him. For the little fellow was looking out the window, almost crying again—he was so excited and thrilled.

"I wanna dance," he exclaimed, looking down at his cast. He saw one of the bandmen come into the house. In a minute or two he came out again and the band stopped playing. He said something to the others and then they started playing again.

The boy looked puzzled. He listened attentively for a moment. Then:

"That first piece was so pretty it made you wanna dance or somethin'. But this one is so different. Gosh! It sounds like somebody was dead!"

G.I. Wills Rose A Week to Girl He Couldn't Win

Leaves a Letter to Brother Giving Directions in Love Case.

RICHMOND, VA. — Like many other soldiers, Valentine Browne Lawless left a will when he went to war in 1944. There were the usual clauses providing for distribution of personal property. There also was a clause that directed that the cash residue of the estate be turned over to his brother, Edward Kirwan Lawless, for a special purpose. But the purpose was not defined in the will.

Valentine left a letter to his brother—to be opened only in case of his death.

The 36-year-old army air forces sergeant was killed in a plane crash at Linz, Austria, in October, 1944. The letter revealed that Valentine a number of years had been in love with a girl whom he had no hope of winning.

"I will continue to love her for the duration of my life," it said.

Show's Devotion.

In death, the letter continued, he planned to express his devotion to the girl. The cash residue of the soldier's estate—$3,600—was to be used to fulfill this wish.

Every week a florist was to send the girl one rose—"perfect rose." The color did not matter. But the identity of the sender never was to be revealed.

"My idea," Valentine wrote to his brother, "is to furnish the girl with the pleasure of receiving a rose, not to have her think of me because I sent it to her."

Valentine's request became known when his sister, Margaret Lawless, contended that her brother's last request was "not practical" and asked the Virginia supreme court of appeals to set it aside.

Legal Squabble.

The sister and other heirs claimed that failure of the will to specify the "special purposes" had the effect of leaving the $3,600 in trust with Edward Lawless for the benefit of other heirs.

Edward contended, however, that carrying out the instructions in his brother's letter was a matter of "conscience."

Previously, a lower court in Norfolk, where the will was made out, ruled that the soldier's funds had been left to Edward "individually and with no trust attached."

But Valentine's sister and other heirs appealed the decision to the higher court in an effort to stop delivery of the dead soldier's "perfect rose" to the girl who married another man and reportedly is living in the tidewater section of Virginia.

Fraulein Is Jailed for Phoning to Officer's Home

FRANKFORT, GERMANY.—Anne Marie Brenneis, 19, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined 500 marks ($50) for "malicious mischief" in making embarrassing telephone calls to the home of a United States army officer.

The comely German girl was convicted by an American military court at Heidelberg of having told the officer's wife over the telephone that she was a "close friend" of the officer and that he had "stood her up" on a date.

When she telephoned a second time, the officer, Capt. Earl Davis, trapped her by arranging a rendezvous at a place surrounded by military police.

Rapid Draw Routs Thugs
And Saves $8,000 in Cash

PHILADELPHIA.—Harvey L. Campbell whipped out a pistol, beat three holdup men to the draw and saved $8,000 in cash and $15,000 in certified checks he was carrying.

He told police he had parked his car and was walking home when the men approached. One waved a gun.

"If that's the way you want it," Campbell said. "I have one of those too."

He fired four times, wounding two of the men before they fled in an automobile.

Later, police arrested two suspects after they applied for hospital treatment.

Sign of Changing Times; Hair Nets Now for the Men

NEW YORK.—A sign in Du Brin's cosmetic store in mid-Manhattan informed passers-by that men's hairnets were for sale. Burnett Du Brin told a reporter the things were common in Europe.

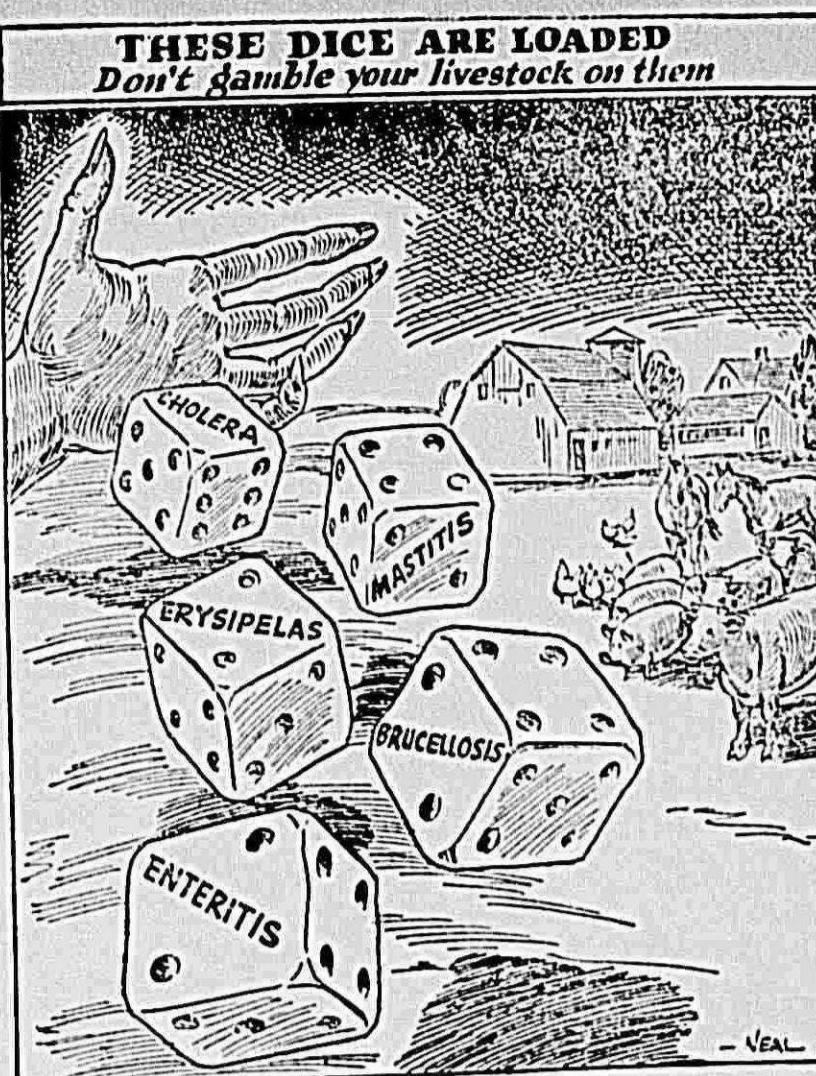

He said they're worn when dressing so the hair won't be mussed up, and when sleeping.

Driving Record Is Spoiled
By a Long Missing License

MILWAUKEE.—William Crawford, 39, whose automobile struck a pedestrian, told the judge it was his first traffic violation in 20 years.

Judge Harvey Neelen said he would consider leniency. But then he learned Crawford had driven those 20 years without a driver's license.

Crawford was fined $25.

Protect Your Loved Ones and Your Home -

WITH
Fully Automatic Fire Extinguishers
On Guard 24 Hours A Day

(Approved and recommended by ANTIOCH FIRE DEPT.)

NO ONE can afford to gamble with FIRE . . . what has happened to others, CAN happen to YOU.

SO DON'T GAMBLE . . . Prepare NOW to stop that fire. Equip your business premises and home with RED COMET FIRE EXTINGUISHERS.

RED COMET AUTOMATICS
THE "FOG SYSTEM" OF FIRE CONTROL

THE MODERN METHOD . . .

The Red Comet Fire Extinguisher operates on an entirely different principle from ordinary fire extinguishers, and marks a New Era in Man's constant battle against fire. Red Comet is AUTOMATIC in operation. No one has to be present to operate it. The heat from the fire puts Red Comet into action AUTOMATICALLY, and the Red Comet fluid, which is sealed in the glass grenade, is AUTOMATICALLY released, and AUTOMATICALLY expands into a big blanket of fire smothering FOG which AUTOMATICALLY controls the fire.

HOW HEAT OPERATES THE RED COMET . . .

When the fire brings the temperature up to 160° (which is only about the temperature of a Turkish bath) the fuse melts, releases the powerful coiled spring, crashed the heavy metal slug against the thin glass grenade, instantly shatters it and sprays the RED COMET FLUID into the air. RED COMET FLUID is the purest Carbon Tetra-Chloride, and will not harm humans, animals, furniture, motors, etc. This fluid changes into "FOG" almost instantly at this heat, and greatly expands into a powerful, fire smothering blanket, which is drawn into the heart of the fire by the draft. This blanket of "FOG" keeps the oxygen away, and smothers the fire—for fire can not live without a continuous supply of oxygen.

Boss of the high "sticks"

Telephone linemen are hand-picked. A combination of skill, ruggedness and courage.

They specialize in tough jobs. They fight ice, wind, fire and flood. Sometimes, when storms destroy everything in their path and poles go down in a tangle of wood and wires, the linemen's job seems almost hopeless. But, somehow, their expert hands put them right again with almost incredible speed.

The lineman is one big reason why your service interruptions are few and far between . . . why we're able to bring service to more and more people all the time and constantly improve everyone's service.

This year, our linemen and their fellow workers are adding nearly half a million miles of wire to Illinois Bell's wire network . . . most of it in cable for better protection from the elements.

A $250,000,000 improvement program is bringing better telephone service your way.

Sacred Tree of Japan
The ginkgo tree comes from Japan and China. It is the sacred tree of Japan. In a pyramidal form, it grows to the height of 50 feet. Its deciduous leaves are very different from the leaves of most American trees. In form, they resemble fans with unbranching, fern-like veins.
This tree bears a plum-like fruit with a most unpleasant odor. In America it grows best in the region of Washington, D. C. The Chinese sometimes plant several male and female trees close together, so that male and female flowers appear to arise on the same tree.
